

SHAKE MADRID WITH FASCIST BOMBING RAID

Planes Visit Capital
For First Time
In A Day

Announce 1,936 Killed By Bombardments

By The Associated Press
Madrid, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Fascist bombs shook Madrid tonight when Fascist raiders made their first expedition over the capital within 24 hours. The raid started at 10:15 P.M. (4:15 P.M. C.S.T.) and 10 bombs exploded on the Model prison barracks. At the same time statistics handed to the visiting delegation of British members of parliament disclosed there were 1,936 victims of Fascist bombardments of Madrid in the period Nov. 8-29.

Of these, the figures showed, 365 persons were killed where they stood. Late night bombing of Madrid followed an announcement in a Spanish government bulletin that a strong Fascist attack on the strategic town of Pozuelo De Alarcón, about seven miles northwest of Madrid, had been crushed.

(A dispatch from the insurgent side of the lines earlier stated occupation of Pozuelo by the Insurgents was unofficially reported at Fascist headquarters.) The bulletin announced the Insurgents' infantry supported by tanks and five squadrons of cavalry, was driven back after desperate hand-to-hand fighting. Madrid's defenders, the government stated, maintained their position and drove back a renewed attack by the Fascists both at Pozuelo, a few miles southwest of Madrid, and Pozuelo.

A new offensive against the Insurgents in the northern province of Alava was also announced. The official bulletin stated that a column from Bilbao had captured a number of towns in the Province and now was less than two miles from Vitoria, in the interior southwest of Bilbao.

It also announced that five Fascist tri-motored airplanes, protected by 15 pursuit ships, had bombed the western section of the Madrid front, but caused only slight damage. The actions at Pozuelo and Humera were carried out while the Fascist airplanes shelled and bombed Madrid in the city's defense leaders feared the inability of their forces to capture the Spanish capital.

Within Madrid, Socialist Foreign Minister Alvarez Del Vayo presided at a meeting of the defense Junta Mapping plans for further fortification of the city. In the streets, government supporters decided the enemy commander, Gen. Francisco Franco, for failure to subjugate Madrid after his long siege and many bombardments. Franco's inability to march his troops into the city soon after the siege began said Madrilenos, would lose his continued support from Germany and Italy.

ARREST PICKETS

Reading, Pa., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Twelve women and 45 men who picketed the Berkshire Knitting Mills by lying flat on the hard, cold pavement at an entrance were arrested today after tear gas bombs failed to subdue them. They were sentenced to 30 days in jail under an old ordinance which prohibits blocking the sidewalk. One other striker paid his fine. There was no violence. The pickets made plain their action was independent of the American Federation of Hosiery Workers which called a strike October 1.

Shopkeepers Fill Fantastic Lists For Movie Stars

Hollywood, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Hollywood shopkeepers, bewildered but happy at heavy buying, filled orders tonight for doghouses, jewelry and trick clothing—items on the movie stars' fantastic Christmas shopping lists. Frances Langford, for example, is giving dog houses this year. All her friends get them, even those who don't have dogs. Joan Crawford's shopping list is confined largely to haberdashery—with excursions into the field of trick vests and things for some of her acquaintances. Jean Harlow is giving perfume, "because I like to buy it."

Director W. S. Van Dyne wouldn't discuss his gift to Actor John Miljan, but he insisted it would be "super-terrible"—something as colossal, no doubt, as the 30-passenger motorbus Miljan gave him last year. Robert Montgomery probably will follow his usual custom, an easy but effective one. He puts currency in Christmas even grab bags for all studio employees.

SUMMON FOUR VAN SWERINGEN MEN FOR QUIZ

Officials Of Rail Empire Are Called By Senate

Washington, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Four of the "key men" in the $3,000,000 Van Sweringen transportation network were summoned today by senate investigators to explain how the famous Cleveland brothers used holding companies to control a score of railroad properties.

Records of the Mid-America corporation, top Van Sweringen Holding company, also were subpoenaed for the opening hearing of the railway financing investigation December 7. George A. Ball, Muncie, Ind. banker and glass manufacturer, and George A. Tomlinson, Cleveland, Ohio, industrialist, headed the list of witnesses called by Chairman Wheeler (D-Mont) of the senate Interstate Commerce committee, indicating they will be the first called.

Wheeler described them as "heirs" to the rail empire ruled by O. P. Van Sweringen until his death last week. Subpoenas also were issued for John P. Murphy, of Cleveland, secretary of Mid-America corporation and business intimate of the Van Sweringens; and Thomas H. Jones, Cleveland railway attorney.

More of the nation's financial leaders—probably including J. P. Morgan—will be called to the witness stand as the exhaustive study of railroad financial history develops. Wheeler and his fellow-inquirers planned to concentrate during the first weeks of the hearing on the Missouri Pacific system, one of the many lines dominated by the Van Sweringens through their Mid-America corporation.

Committee employees said the inquiry later would touch on 24 other carriers, recommended for investigation by Joseph Eastman, federal transportation coordinator. Many of the roads now are in receivership.

Charge Germany Trading in Arms

Geneva, Nov. 30.—(AP)—League of Nations officials charged today Germany was trading in arms and munitions of war in open violation of the treaty of Versailles. Germany sold munitions worth 10,440,000 reichsmarks ($4,136,000) in 1935, the league reported, and bought arms of war to the value of 215,000 reichsmarks ($86,000).

Article 170 of the Treaty of Versailles that ended the World War prohibited Germany from exporting and importing arms as war material. (Practically all of the major provisions of the Treaty of Versailles, except for the rearrangements of European boundaries, have been considered by Germany to be void.)

Arm exports of the United States, the year book published today showed, were $5,650,100 as compared with $6,240,700 for 1934. Principal purchasers of munitions from the United States were listed as China and Bolivia. Germany's best customer in arms, according to the league, was Great Britain with purchases amounting to 1,089,000 reichsmarks ($435,600).

FIRE IN LONDON RAZES HISTORIC OLD BUILDING

Crystal Palace Burns
With Enormous Property Loss

Molten Glass Streams Drive
Back Fire Fighters

London, Nov. 30.—(AP)—London's most spectacular fire in modern times tonight destroyed the historic Crystal Palace, show-place and amusement center for millions since the days of Queen Victoria. The blaze started in a woman's cloakroom in a manner yet to be determined and within an hour turned the vast glass and iron building into a fiery beacon. Hundreds of thousands of spectators watched the destruction of the building from vantage points throughout the London area.

Streams of molten glass drove back fire fighters, several of whom were injured. There was no loss of life and the property loss had still to be estimated, but it was believed it was enormous. Valuable experimental television equipment of the Baird Television Laboratories and a collection of music by George Frederick Handel valued at many thousands of pounds sterling were destroyed.

The Palace, erected in 1851 in Hyde Park for the world exhibition and later moved across the Thames eight miles south of London, was the property of the British nation. Hundreds of families living in the vicinity of the structure were forced to evacuate their homes.

The Palace orchestra holding a rehearsal narrowly escaped, fleeing just before the central part of the glass and iron roof crashed in with a roar. Three explosions shook the neighborhood. Members of Parliament flocked to the windows to watch the glare which could be seen for 30 miles. Over 1,000,000 persons have visited the $6,750,000 building annually for musical festivals and exhibitions.

Charge Governor Of Vermont With Concealing Theft

Arrest Gov. Charles Smith
In Sensational Bank Case

Rutland, Vt., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Vermont's grey-haired governor, Charles M. Smith, president of the Rutland Marble Savings Bank, was arrested today, charged with concealing an employee's alleged thefts from the bank he headed.

State's Attorney Asa S. Bloomer said the governor's arrest grew out of a bookkeeper's alleged thefts amounting to more than a quarter-million dollars. High Sheriff Henry A. Adams seized the 68-year-old executive in the privacy of his bank office, then escorted him to the courthouse in this county seat.

There, four hours later, Earle Kinsley, former Republican national committee man and an insurance company executive here, and his wife, furnished $5000 bail to free him. His arrest came just a week after the bookkeeper, John J. Cocklin, 42-year-old world war veteran, was convicted of embezzling $124,000 from the bank over a nine year period.

During his trial, Cocklin testified that the governor had told him the bank's shortage brought about by the alleged thefts would never be made public. The governor was not arraigned today, nor was the day set for his appearance in court to answer to the charge.

His arrest caused a sensation in this city, following as it did five previous arrests—four of them prominent Vermont citizens—in connection with the case.

Million Argentines Cheer Roosevelt In Welcome To Capital

Buenos Aires, Nov. 30.—(AP)—One million Argentines gave President Franklin D. Roosevelt the greatest mass welcome in their nation's history when he arrived today to open conferences by which 21 American republics hope to build a citadel of permanent peace in the New World. Argentine secret service men said the wild ovations which lasted far into the hot night exceeded even those accorded England's King Edward VIII when, as Prince of Wales, he visited Buenos Aires in 1931.

Spontaneous salvos of cheering and "Vivas!" rolled along the route alone for 15 minutes without interruption tonight when he drove to the Casa Rosada to pay a formal call on Argentine's President Augustin Justo.

Similar demonstrations earlier roared from the throngs which lined the route alone when he landed from the United States cruiser Indianapolis. Some felt the blows of police clubs as their excited disorder threatened to tip up the 11-car procession of United States and Argentine officials. One mounted grenadier went down with his horse, and another rider was unseated.

On the Plaza San Martin, mounted officers rode at the crowd with drawn sabers, forcing the spectators back behind lines. Mr. Roosevelt, the first United States president to visit Argentina while in office, made his headquarters for his three-day stay at the United States embassy, a handsome structure surrounded by a beautiful park. There he was to receive members of the United States delegation, including Secretary Hull.

The president was to dine privately at 9 p. m. Tomorrow morning he is scheduled to take an auto tour of the city and later to receive President Justo, who is to accompany him to the legislative palace for the initial session of the parity. Hundreds of flag-bedecked vessels in the Rio de La Plata tied down their whistles as the Indianapolis, escorted by eight Argentine warships and a squadron of airplanes, sailed up the Rio de La Plata.

On shore, sirens and automobile horns raised a terrific din as crowds rushed to the squares and thoroughfares along the announced route of President Roosevelt's car. James Roosevelt, the president's son, was the first of the United States party to set foot in Argentina as the Indianapolis made fast to a gaily decorated pier along which a red carpet, an eighth of a mile in length, was stretched.

Thousands in the Plaza Britanica and streets close to the dock applauded as the visiting president stepped to the quay just before 2 p. m. (noon, E. S. T.). United States Ambassador Alexander W. Weddell introduced the two presidents.

The eleven officials cars, heavily guarded by Argentine police and American secret service agents, formed a line behind 350 blue-uniformed, white-pauletted horse grenadiers of Gen. Josec De San Martin, named for the Argentine who liberated the country from Spanish rule in 1812.

Mr. Roosevelt, carrying a bunch of roses in his left hand, waved his high silk hat to the cheering throngs with his right hand. Scores broke through police lines along the procession passed and ran along behind the presidential car. The hot sun of the Argentine summer beat down on the crowds. In the aristocratic residential sections and the parks through which the line of cars passed, heavily scented jacaranda trees were in full purple bloom.

Embassy Row on the Avenida Alvear, flew the flags of all major world powers. A roar went up from the crowd as the United States and Argentine presidents reached the United States embassy, a 22-room marble building in Palermo park.

Long after President Roosevelt had gone inside and President Justo had taken his leave, hundreds remained in the neighborhood, applauding and cheering. Early in the evening, after his formal call on the Argentine executive, President Roosevelt received Dr. Vicente Gallo, president of the University of Buenos Aires, who awarded him the degree of doctor of laws, Honoris Causa.

FATHER TRAMPS GIRL TO DEATH; MOTHER BEATEN

Georgia Sheriff Says
Story "Most Pitiful"
He Ever Heard

Investigation Shows Man Jealous of Daughter's Date

Jesup, Ga., Nov. 30.—(AP)—A 51-year-old itinerant repairman was charged today with stamping his 14-year-old step-daughter to death before her mother's eyes because he thought she had gone on a date. Sheriff R. E. Warren of Wayne county said the man listed as L. R. Ward, was arrested Saturday at the girl's funeral which he financed by soliciting money from merchants. He said the man was held in an undisclosed jail.

"He denied striking the child," the sheriff said. "He claimed his wife told him a car hit her." Sheriff Warren said the child, bleeding at the mouth and ears, was taken to a Brunswick hospital last Wednesday and died a day or so later. He joined Police Chief J. E. Register and Assistant Chief O. E. Birch of Brunswick in an investigation after their suspicion was aroused by an unnamed woman, he explained.

"The mother told us the most pitiful story I ever heard," the sheriff said. "He claimed his wife told him a car hit her." Sheriff Warren said the child, bleeding at the mouth and ears, was taken to a Brunswick hospital last Wednesday and died a day or so later. He joined Police Chief J. E. Register and Assistant Chief O. E. Birch of Brunswick in an investigation after their suspicion was aroused by an unnamed woman, he explained.

Burch said that they remained in a truck in the woods that night and that the mother finally prevailed on Ward to take the girl to a hospital. He said she told him she was forced to swear to tell the child was struck by an automobile. Sheriff Warren said: "I had rather not go into details as to why the step-father beat the girl except to say it was jealousy, our investigation shows."

Warren said the mother and a 12-year-old son, brother of the girl, were being taken care of at an undisclosed place by authorities.

Explosion Kills Seven in Quarry; Cause Unknown

Dynamite Explodes As Men
Are Carrying Load To Hill

Delta, Pa., Nov. 30.—(AP)—An explosion of dynamite killed seven men today at a slate quarry in southern York county, a stone's throw from the Mason-Dixon line. Six of the victims, two of them brothers, were mangled almost beyond recognition. The seventh, Frank Weaver, died a short time later in a York hospital.

The dynamite exploded with a terrific roar as workmen were carrying it toward the tunnel of the slate quarry. Officials of the Funkhouser company, operators of the quarry, were unable to explain the accident. None of the other 65 workmen was near enough to see what caused the blast.

Four of the dead were employed by the Funkhouser company. They were Luther Williams, 25, and Ralph Weaver, about 28, son of Frank Weaver; and Lush and Winston Lynn. Two others, Lee Jones, 18, and Roy Ayres, 18, both of Delta, were not employed there, a company clerk said. The dynamite was intended to blast a slate "hill."

A company engineer was dispatched to investigate. Coroner L. U. Zech of York county started an official inquiry.

HIS FATHER—FOR CHRISTMAS

Joliet, Ill., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Four year old Richard Baker may get his father back for Christmas. Unafraid, the child stood before the parole board today and said: "I'd like to have my daddy home for Christmas." Michael Howlett, a member of the board, intimated Charles Baker, the boy's father would be released soon. Baker, a former resident of Downers Grove, Ill., was sent to prison farm two and a half years ago for auto theft, but fled six months later and went home to see Richard when the boy was ill. Since then he has been in the state prison here.

Critic Says Galli Curci "Can Sing"; Hears New Records

Chicago, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Eugene Stinson, Chicago music critic, expressed the opinion today that Amelita Galli-Curci had regained her rich voice. One of critics who expressed disappointment in her recent "second operatic debut," Stinson of the Chicago Daily News staff, writes: "Galli-Curci can sing, and after the failure of her 'Boheme' last Tuesday she was given indisputable evidence of a comeback in a set of microphonic recordings which attest the amazing fitness of her vocalism." Last Saturday, Galli-Curci sang several arias. They were recorded on "test" records.

"They show an amazing intensity of tone and a quicksilver mobility of vocalization," Stinson wrote. "They contain the voice the whole world was waiting to hear last Tuesday."

He expressed a belief she had suffered "a gigantic case of nerves" during her "second debut."

FRANCE SEEKS PACT AGAINST FASCIST BLOC

Would Align Forces
With Britain,
Belgium

Paris, Nov. 30.—(AP)—France, looking at a rearmaged Germany on her border and at spreading Italian influence in the Balkans beyond, today sought a three-power alliance against the Fascist European bloc. Specifically France strove to line up with Great Britain in mutual military assistance pacts if either should be attacked.

In addition, the French plan was to extend the same offer to Belgium, traditional battleground of France and her enemies, informed sources said. As the alliance would be intended publicly as one between "democratic nations," foreign observers felt the United States might be urged at least to demonstrate sympathetic if not actual adherence.

Carrying out France's announced determination to build her defenses to meet attack from any quarter, the superior naval council recommended increased naval construction over a period of years, "in principle" but made public no figures.

Foreign Minister Yvonne Delbos, was expected to disclose details of his foreign policy in the chamber of deputies Dec. 4, after which Premier Leon Blum is to ask a vote of confidence for his steady resistance of communist demands that France send arms to Spain.

The government will stake its life on its Spanish neutrality stand, informed sources said, and will resign unless all units of the "popular front government" approved the non-intervention policy.

France already has bound herself in a mutual assistance pact with Russia as a primary bulwark against Reichsfuehrer Hitler's estimated 800,000 armed men. Delbos recently said informally that "if Britain is ready to aid us in case of unprovoked aggression, we are ready to help her in the same circumstances."

(Britain's Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, at a luncheon last Friday, declared Premier Paul Van Zeeland of Belgium said "Belgium can count on our help were she a victim of unprovoked aggression.")

The French government, alarmed by the recent Japanese-German and Japanese-Italian accords against France's military ally Russia, was reported to be determined not to stand by idly "while German diplomats forge a chain from Europe to Asia."

Princess Shoots Husband; Is III

Mexico City, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Princess Conchita Leone de Nigratz was in such nervous collapse today doctors would not authorize her appearance as a preliminary hearing on charges of killing her husband, the Georgian Prince Vladimir de Nigratz. Prison attendants said her hysteria had increased after she saw another woman inmate, Genoveva Zambrano, plunge to her death from the second floor of the women's division of the prison.

The 35-year-old Princess learned her husband was dead only when authorities came to take her to the preliminary hearing. Jailers said she told them she shot him because she "couldn't bear the idea of losing him."

CHARLES KOEHR IS RESIGNED TO 'CAIN' PENALTY

Broken Man Willing To Accept Decree
For Killing

Confesses To Killing Brother
In 1902

Chicago, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Charles Koehr, a gray, gaunt, forlorn man of 64—resigned himself tonight to whatever penalty the law decrees for the "Cain killing" of his brother 35 years ago. He sat disconsolate in a cell at the defective bureau, waiting for Deputy Sheriff Vivian Stuart to take him back to Belleville, Ill., where a warrant was issued today charging him with murdering his brother, Henry, on May 27, 1901.

A Belleville deputy planned to reach here tomorrow morning to return Koehr to his old home town. Yellowed records there yielded another tragic note. They showed Koehr's mother, Mary, had died of poison near Henry's grave in 1903. "I think we can prove his guilt if he chooses to stand trial," said State's Attorney L. P. Zerweck at Belleville. "The chances are he will plead guilty."

Koehr—his conscience caused him to confess his crime here late Saturday night—said: "I'm ready for my punishment. I don't know what they'll do to me. I think I'd rather take a good long sentence in jail. The mark of Cain is upon me. Maybe if I'm locked up it won't bother me any more."

Earlier, he told Police Sergeant William Murphy he had struck his brother, Henry, over the head with a stick in a quarrel that grew out of his opposition to Henry's employment in a saloon. The body was found in a cistern Feb. 15, 1902. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of "accidental drowning."

Charles came to Chicago. He changed his name to Koeh. For 18 years he worked as a filing clerk in a loop store. He lost his job, he suffered from a throat ailment. Then, heart-sick and weary, he divulged his secret to the sergeant.

Retired Worker On Railroad Succumbs

Joseph Beauchamp Passes
Away Monday at Home
Near Carrollton

Carrollton, Nov. 30.—Joseph Beauchamp, 80, for many years section foreman for the Alton railroad at Berdan, died at 10 o'clock this morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Tony Woods, east of this city. Mr. Beauchamp had been a resident of Greene county since 1933.

He was born at Montreal, Canada, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Beauchamp. He was united in marriage with Della Connor at Hopkeda, Ill., Jan. 11, 1878. Mrs. Beauchamp preceded him in death 8 years ago. For many years the family home was at Berdan where Mr. Beauchamp was a faithful employee of the railroad, retiring from work only a few years ago.

Surviving are one son and five daughters, Robert Beauchamp, Chilchington Premier Paul Van Zeeland of Belgium said "Belgium can count on our help were she a victim of unprovoked aggression.")

The French government, alarmed by the recent Japanese-German and Japanese-Italian accords against France's military ally Russia, was reported to be determined not to stand by idly "while German diplomats forge a chain from Europe to Asia."

Garner Returns Early to Capital

Washington, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Vice President Garner's hurried return to the capital, earlier than usual, stirred widespread speculation tonight among those knowing his reluctance to leave Texas much before congress convenes. White House aides refused to confirm or deny that he had been called to the capital by President Roosevelt to be on hand should any emergency arise while the chief executive was 6,000 miles away in South America. With the president away, Mr. Garner is, of course, the highest official within the national borders.

The 67-year-old Texan was expected to take a keen though strictly unofficial and non-partisan interest in the fast-growing contest for the Democratic floor leadership of the House. One of his life-long friends, Representative Rayburn of Texas, is a candidate for the post, considered second in importance to the speakership. His early return also will enable Garner to scan a host of legislative problems before congress convenes January 5.

A Mission of Peace

President Roosevelt today will attend to a piece of business that will affect the peace and welfare of every United States citizen. While it is not a pressing matter, the President will appear before a throng at the inter-American conference at Buenos Aires and tell the delegates that this country stands for peace, and is willing to help other countries maintain it through diplomatic negotiations. That is his sole mission to the South American conference.

Other countries in the Americas are pretty well convinced by this time that Uncle Sam means what he says about wanting continued peace. The United States has no position to defend at the Buenos Aires conference. President Roosevelt's presence is merely a gesture of good will, a move to reaffirm this government's desire to stay out of armed conflicts, and to set a good example for other nations. Perhaps it is a wise policy now and then to call attention to our policies of peace. There can be no misunderstanding when the chief executive of this country goes to foreign nations accompanied by only a handful of aides, and holds an olive branch aloft for the world to see.

President Roosevelt's mission to the conference is certain to be a success, because his mission is one of complete frankness, and the attitude of the country he represents is one of friendship. Any cards the President lays on the conference table will be face up, easy for the delegates to read. There will be no joker in the deck. The United States has nothing to hide at the inter-American conference. Its participation there will be open and above board.

President Roosevelt conveys to the parley the feelings of the average citizen of the United States toward the countries to the south of us. We are rather proud of them. The Brazilians, the Argentinians, the Chileans and other South Americans, maintain governments patterned somewhat after our own. While they have internal flareups occasionally, for the most part they are progressive peoples, advancing rapidly in the problems of civilization. They trade with us, adopt our customs and remain friendly. What more could we expect of our neighbors?

Dispatches tell of the rousing receptions accorded the President by the South American cities he has visited. These demonstrations speak more eloquently than words. South and North America seem to have a perfect understanding, and while Mr. Roosevelt is down there he is going to confirm it officially. He is writing a glorious message of peace that should never be erased.

Business on The Job

Whatever the direct result of the trip to South America, it is sure to bring about other things not included in the official plans. Business interests of this country, it appears, are out to take advantage of the "breaks" in the love fest now in progress at Buenos Aires.

Sensing this secondary effect of the presidential journey with its political effect, Hiram Sibley, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, made a personal trip on his own hook. He left Miami last week by airplane and is to be in Buenos Aires on the same days as President Roosevelt. It will give this leading American an interesting personal thrill to see our President in his acclaim by the Argentinians.

But Mr. Sibley's journey is more for business than pleasure. He will make a general survey of South American industrial and agricultural conditions and canvass new opportunities for trade expansion for the business interests of the United States. He will visit Rio de Janeiro and other important cities of the Atlantic side of South America. Mr. Sibley, representing thousands of business men of the United States, should bring back a packed handbag of useful business information.

Santa Claus is Coming

Santa Claus is coming to town! He will arrive at 2 o'clock this afternoon to greet the boys and girls of this community, and assure them that he will be back on the job later in the month, when he will make his official Christmas visit, unseen to the hundreds of youngsters whose sleep will be filled with visions of reindeer and the music of sleigh bells.

Jacksonville business men invited Santa Claus to make this advance visit to the community. Their enterprise will be rewarded by much juvenile excitement. What small boy or girl does not thrill to the name Santa Claus, and to a personal sight of the jolly old chap? Childhood has remained faithful to traditions. Santa Claus means as much to the five or six year old child today as a half century ago.

Realizing the high interest that has been created in the coming of Santa Claus, school officials have arranged to dismiss the grade schools this afternoon so that the youngsters may enjoy the festivities. The square and uptown business district is expected to be crowded with children, all eager to catch a glimpse of the generous saint, who to them means new toys, clothing, candy and other good things.

The festivities probably will furnish an inspiration to older persons to make this Christmas one of the happiest in their lives. Local business men were on the right track when they secured Santa Claus for this special engagement—he will make the children happy, and when the youngsters have a merry Christmas, everyone has a merry Christmas.

Railroad Renaissance

All this talk of revival of the railroads sounds good, but Jacksonville business men continue their pleas for better train service, particularly between this city and Chicago. While this community is negotiating for better railroad service, a statement by Samuel O. Dunn, editor of the Railway Age, might be appropriate.

"Whether the remarkable renaissance of railroad transportation that has begun during and in spite of the depression will continue will be determined by railroad managements, the manufacturing industry and the public acting through government," Mr. Dunn said.

He pointed out that in five years of depression air-conditioning has been introduced by railroads, and speed has been inculcated into the trains.

Not many years ago it took 72 hours to travel by rail between San Francisco and Chicago. The trip can now be made in 40 hours. Speeds of passenger trains have increased in a relative way over shorter routes.

Inventive genius and private enterprise have provided lighter metals which make possible the revolutionizing improvements.

People of this community have no doubt about the ability of the railroad industry to "come back." What they want is for fast trains, convenient time cards and better service in general, to come back to Jacksonville.

What About the Bear?

We were interested by a story that came out of British Columbia recently. It concerned a prospector and a black bear yearling.

The man had broken his leg when felling a pine tree. No help was available. The weather was cold and threatening. His cabin was miles away. Death was certain unless he reached shelter. So he made a splint for his leg and began his long crawl. He was still dragging himself through the woods on the sixth day when a heavy snowfall drove him to seek shelter in the cave of a black bear. The animal made no move to attack.

After several days, semi-conscious, he crawled from the bear's cave and continued his slow progress to his cabin. The bear followed him. In a week, he had crawled to within a half mile of his cabin, with the black bear as a constant companion. On the tenth night, he lapsed into a stupor, but said he was conscious of being surrounded by a ring of coyotes. The coyotes, however, did not approach, apparently because the bear stood guard. He was found the next day in an exhausted condition by another prospector.

It's a thrilling story, but sadly lacking in that verisimilitude required to give reality to an otherwise bald and unconvincing narrative. It's not so much that we are concerned about the man. But what about the bear? We want to know more about this black-haired, four-legged Samaritan. Did it supply its wounded companion food and drink during those days of that long crawl? Did it warm him as well as protect him? And what became of it? We feel cheated, for here's a choice nature story seemingly deliberately thrown away by a narrator who had either too much imagination or not enough.

A Busy Xmas Season

The greatest Christmas business since 1929 was forecast by Secretary of Commerce Roper at Washington last week.

Estimating holiday department store sales would be 15 percent above those of last year the commerce department chief predicted they would total around $920,000,000. This would compare with $800,000,000 in 1935 and more than $1,000,000,000 in 1929.

Secretary Roper said reports from all sections indicated "marked advances" over last year, and that business generally would be "greater than for any like year since 1929."

His forecast was issued on the eve of a meeting of the Business Advisory Council in Washington, composed of business men who act in an advisory capacity to the commerce department.

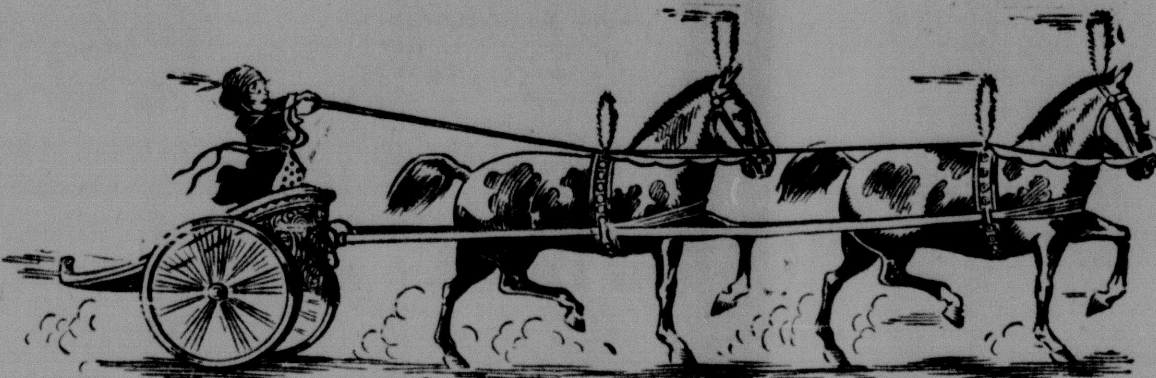

The secretary's forecast should carry a note of genuine encouragement to business throughout the

Color Blindness Dangerous Because of Tendency to Confuse Signals

BY DR. MORRIS FISHER, Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

A Quaker named John Dalton bought some scarlet stockings which he thought were dark brown. This was the first scientifically recorded instance of color blindness.

Dalton was an eminent English physicist. It is said that he was walking down the street at Oxford, wearing his cap and gown and red stockings, just after a degree had been conferred upon him, and that one of his brother Quakers promptly took him to task for wearing such colors in public.

Color blindness is more common in boys than in girls. It is exceedingly important today because signals on the railroads and on street corners are most frequently red, green, and yellow, and occasionally blue, the colors most frequently concerned in color blindness.

Certainly, no one who is color blind should attempt to drive a motor car in modern traffic.

The difficulty of distinguishing between red and green is the most common form of color blindness. The blue-yellow difficulty is much rarer.

country. Coming from an official source it should be authentic in substance.

Mr. Roper's prediction seems to be borne out as far as Jacksonville is concerned. Business houses here have made preparations for a busy Christmas season. Stocks are larger than for a number of years, the general opinion being that this holiday is going to set something of a modern record in the way of buying activities.

Business men throughout the country will join in hoping that Mr. Roper is right—dead right.

TIGHE FUNERAL HELD MONDAY AT CHURCH

Funeral services for Edward Tighe, Jr., were held Monday morning at the Church of Our Saviour, in charge of the Rev. Dean F. F. Formaz. Interment was in Calvary cemetery.

Full bearers were Bobbie Williams, Junior Williams, Ernest Madison, and Henry Butcher.

In charge of the flowers were Mildred Sweeney, Pauline and Mina McCarty, Mary and Bessie Butcher, and Stella Lacy.

Persons who have color blindness see objects as lighter or darker, but are unable to distinguish shades. Sometimes they distinguish between red and green lights on roadways by their difference in brightness.

There is no specific cure for color blindness, since the defect is one of structure of the eye. However, as has already been mentioned, there are various ways in which the color vision may be developed or substituted.

The most common test involves sorting a number of colored worsteds. The person being tested is given certain pieces and asked to match them with others. There are other tests in which colored strips of paper are employed.

One woman who was an excellent seamstress was able to do sewing provided her family would tell her the colors of the thread. She was able to remember them by having each color in a different place in her workshop.

So important is color blindness today as a possible cause of accidents that every person who attempts to drive a motor car, or to occupy himself in any other way in which color detection is significant should have a test as soon as possible.

To Seek Equipment For New Buildings At School for Deaf

Completed Dormitories Will House 330 Students; 32 Modern Classrooms

Requests will be filed this week for equipment for three new buildings at the Illinois School for the Deaf, the managing officer, Dr. D. T. Cloud, announced Monday. It is expected to have the second combination classroom and dormitory unit, and also the boys' dormitory ready for occupancy by the first of the year. The first combination unit is being used, but only partial requisitions for equipment have been made.

When the three structures are completed, 330 children at the school will be quartered in new dormitories. The program includes the equivalent of eight buildings, including the new auditorium, which is also nearing completion.

Each of the two combination units

Each of the classroom units contains sixteen rooms, which means that 32 classes will be taken from the old school building when all of the new space is occupied. It will still be necessary to use the old building for some 18 classes until different arrangements can be made.

Trees in Three Counties Are Hard Hit, Expert Says; Years Will Tell

Jerseyville, Ill.—(AP)—The extent of drought damage to orchards in Jersey, Greene and Calhoun counties can not be determined for several years, G. W. Wieneke, prominent Jersey county orchardist, said Monday.

"Many trees in this part of Illinois were so badly weakened by the drought and the severe winter preceding it that a considerable per cent may be expected to die during this winter and next season," Wieneke said.

Improved Roads Jump Over 50 Percent in County During Year

Improved roads in Morgan county have been increased over 50 percent during the present year, according to a report prepared by W. J. Casler, county highway superintendent. The improvements have reduced from a total of 807 miles of unimproved roads in 1935, to 407 miles at the present time through oiling and the construction of farm-to-market gravel highways by the Works Progress administration.

In the recapitulation of the improvements, Casler's report shows that the State Bond issue routes, of Portland cement concrete, have been increased from 104 miles to 108 miles, that gravel and stone highways have increased from three miles to 186 miles, that oiled earth roads have increased from 93 miles to 350 miles, and that the unimproved earth roads have been decreased from 837 miles to 407 miles.

The county highway department also located 12 miles of roadway which had become lost through disuse and changes in the county engineering department.

Improvements to roads in the county were worth approximately $127,500, the county superintendent of highways estimated. He based his estimate on the average cost of constructing a mile of improved road, which is $750. He pointed out that there have been 170 miles of road constructed during the summer. A large portion of the cost of this program has been borne by the WPA, and the WPA is continuing its activities during the winter months, as long as the weather will permit.

The figures, which do not include the city of Jacksonville improvements, known as district 14, list the total amount of highways under the different divisions. Under the county state aid roads, there is a total of 43.25 miles of gravel road, 76.75 miles of oiled road, eight miles of bituminous road, and four miles of plain road. Under the road districts, there is a total of 142.75 miles of gravel road, 280 miles of oiled road, and 403 miles of earth road, which, added to the total of 106 miles of Portland cement concrete, brings the total amount of highways in the county to 1066 miles, exclusive of the city of Jacksonville and other cities and villages in the county. Rural routes cover 647 miles in the county.

The report also points out that a number of road districts took it upon themselves to improve their highways by voting a special oiling tax.

The county superintendent, in making out plans for the coming year, estimates that 250 more miles of roadway will be improved if the WPA program continues.

Six Deadly Spiders Caught for Teacher

Black Widows Captured by Griggsville Students

Six black widow spiders, caught by students of the Griggsville high school since the first of September, have been brought to Miss Eloise Chumley, teacher of biology in the school. Miss Chumley spent the Thanksgiving holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Chumley, 1231 South Clay avenue, and brought one of the spiders alive to be placed on display here.

The deadly insect is now on display in the window of the Brady hardware store. Another she presented alive to the biology department of MacMurray College. The remaining four have been chloroformed and placed in alcohol.

The spider in the window had lived two weeks in a jar without food or air. Friday several flies were placed in the jar and a hole was punched in the lid. As far as is known the insect is still alive. All of the spiders brought to Miss Chumley had the proper markings and were identified as black widows.

Students who caught the spiders had some thrilling experiences to relate. One spider was captured within two feet of a bed occupied by the baby in the home. Another was found on the wall when the father took down his coat from the hanger. The black widows appear to be alarmingly numerous in Pike county.

HUNDREDS VISIT NEW BRIDGE OVER RIVER

Stream of Traffic Rolls Over Meredosia Span

Meredosia—Hundreds of motorists from all over this section of Illinois rolled over the Illinois State highway department's new bridge across the Illinois river here Sunday as many people took advantage of the new short cuts made possible by the addition of the bridge to the road system.

Although there was a large number of sightseers who rode across the bridge and then returned to their homes, there also was a large amount of through traffic. No official count was taken of the number of cars passing over one of the most unusual bridges in the state, but traffic at times was estimated to have mounted to as high as 150 cars an hour.

One resident made a count of the cars passing over the bridge between 1 and 2 p. m. Thanksgiving day, and reported 74 cars used the bridge. The traffic was considered light at this time.

ARE YOU ONLY A THREE-QUARTER WIFE?

THERE are certain things a woman has to put up with and be a good sport. Men, because they are men, can never understand a three-quarter wife—a wife who is all love and kindness three weeks in a month and a hell cat the rest of the time. No matter how your back aches no matter how loudly your nerves scream don't take it out on your husband.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, this lessening the discomfort from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

For Digestion's Sake ... Smoke Camels

Good digestion helps bring a sense of well-being and contentment

THE delightful effect of smoking Camels with your meals and afterwards has been proved again and again in the great laboratory of human experience. Explorers, champion athletes, people in hazardous outdoor work, as well as millions of men and women in homes and offices, find that Camels get digestion off to a good start and make the perfect ending to a meal. When you enjoy Camels, you are rewarded with an increased flow of digestive fluids—alkaline digestive fluids—so important to good digestion. And you can enjoy Camels as often as you like! Camels don't get on your nerves.

A FLIGHT DISPATCHER. "I often eat my meals on the job," says H. G. Andrews, TWA flight dispatcher. "Camels help my digestion behave itself. Being mild, Camels don't get on my nerves."

THIS CO-ED SAYS: "Camels set me right. Mental work often has an effect on digestion too," adds Miss Josephine O'Neill. "During meals Camels are a big aid to digestion. After meals they make food seem twice as good."

3,500 Letters Mailed Out

Campaign SealsWith Uncle Sam's postal depart-of all parts of Morgan county.As in the past three years, each of these letters has been addressed by the three typing classes of the Jackrection of their teacher, Miss Mildred George. There are approximately 75 students in these three typing classes, of which thirty-three are advanced students and 42 are members of the two beginning classes in typing.Recipients of these letters are asked to start using the gay little stickers early this year, placing them on all packages and letters during the month of December. The money realized from the sale of these penny health seals is used to finance the services of nurse working on tu-of high school students, and a varied educational program toward the control of tuberculosis in our county.

most thoughtful attention as the story was unfolded. The chorus was assisted by Miss Charlotte Seiber as very unusual night audience. Homer Wood led the preliminary song service and furnished a solo. The subject

W. T. Spire's Funeral Largely Attended Sunday Afternoon

Minister Pays Tribute to Life of Aged Citizen in
Final RitesVery largely attended funeral services for the late William T. Spire were held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon from First Baptist church. The pastor, Rev. F. D. Stone, paid high tribute to the sterling character of the aged Morgan county citizen, using as his text the incident of the death of a great prince of Israel."A man to be really great does not have to lead armies or rule a state," the minister said. "He may serve in a humble capacity and by his quiet life and faithful work in the cause of righteousness he may prove his title to greatness. Such has been the life of this man. He has lived usefully and sincerely and has been among us an exemplary Christian character."Mrs. Lois Harney Hardin sang "The Old Rugged Cross" and "Good Night," with Miss Leana Clemens at the organ. The many beautiful floral

Ashland Lady Hurt In Spreading Alarm of Votsmier Blaze

City Water Mains Not Ready to Furnish Water and Home is Destroyed

Ashland—Mrs. Frank S. Berg, who broke her arm in spreading a fire alarm here Sunday afternoon, is in Springfield hospital, and the Henry Votsmier home, long a landmark of this city, is in ashes as the result of the blaze.

Damage estimated at between $4,000 and $5,000 resulted when a blaze broke out on the roof of the nine room house here Sunday afternoon. The city fire department, responding to a call, almost put the blaze under control when the water supply in the new water system, not yet completely ready for service, failed.

Mrs. Berg, a caller at the Votsmier home, was watching the flame spark suddenly ignite the roof. She ran two blocks to reach the nearest telephone, but found no one at home.

As she turned to leave, she slipped on the steps, breaking one of her arms. Despite her injury, she hastened to the fire department, three blocks farther, and turned in the alarm.

Firemen, using for the first time water from the mains of the city's new system, apparently, at one time had the roof blaze under control. Then the pressure failed and when the flames flared up again, firemen found themselves helpless.

The tanks at the recently constructed wells south of the city contained only enough water to test the mains, which had not yet been put into service.

The buildings, formerly the Silas Hexter homestead and a landmark of the community, burned to the ground, together with some of its contents.

The loss was partly covered by insurance. The fire, only a block from the state highway, attracted a throng of townspeople and motorists.

Mrs. Berg was taken to Springfield hospital shortly after her injury became known.

Routt To Help Chapin Inaugurate Little Six Card Tonight

Minnesota Holds "Number 1" Among College Teams Of The Nation In Final Grid Poll

29 Games Listed On H.S. Cage Schedule

Open Saturday Night With Chandlerville on Local Boards

Unhappily by the delay of getting men out of a football frame of mind and into the theoretical no-contact frame of mind of basketball, Coach Frank Walker resumed basketball practice for this year's J. H. S. squad yesterday on the David Prince court in preparation for the opening game of the season with Chandlerville's Comets here next Saturday night. None of the football players have reported for basketball as yet.

The Comets will initiate a schedule of a possible 29 games, although two dates remain to be agreed upon. These two dates are with Routt and are needed to round out the J. H. S. schedule with city basketball rivals. The Crimsons went under the eyes of their instructor for the fourth time yesterday, but Coach Walker declared he didn't know a thing yet. His problem is to find an entirely new first team, for the boys who won the regional tournament here last year and went to the semi-finals of the sectional, have graduated and now are students at Illinois College.

Reserves from that squad, however, are trying for varsity jobs this year. They are "Skinny" Baptist, center, Baldwin, Charles Ketter, Johnston, Massey, Bill Hemphill, Wayne Smith, Bill Hoffmann and two Woodson players, Leeper and Mervin Henry.

The Crimsons will not participate in any tournaments until they reach the district or regional stage of the state high school association sponsored tournaments.

The schedule for the year: Dec. 5—Chandlerville here. Dec. 7—At New Berlin. Dec. 11—At Pittsfield here. Dec. 12—At White Hall. Dec. 15—At Carrollton. Dec. 17—At Beardstown. Dec. 18—Converse (Springfield) here.

Dec. 22—At Jerseyville. Dec. 23—At Franklin here. Jan. 1—At Mt. Sterling. Jan. 5—Peitshans (Springfield) here.

Jan. 8—At Lincoln. Jan. 15—At I. S. D. here.

Jan. 19—At Cathedral (Springfield) here.

Jan. 23—At Pittsfield. Jan. 26—At Rushville. Jan. 29—At White Hall here.

Feb. 2—At Mt. Sterling here. Feb. 2—At Peitshans (Springfield). Feb. 5—Mt. Pulaski here.

Feb. 6—Winchester here. Feb. 9—At Ashland. Feb. 13—Waverly here.

Feb. 16—At Cathedral (Springfield). Feb. 19—Murrayville here.

Feb. 20—I. S. D. here. Feb. 23—Carlinville here.

Coach Walker is holding Jan. 12 open for a game with Routt, and if Routt is able to change its game with I. S. D., scheduled for Feb. 20 to another date, the Crimsons and Routt will meet for the same time on that date.

Carrollton Takes Three Votes To Determine Valuable Player

Carrollton—Carrollton High's Hawks, who finished in second place in the Illinois Valley conference football campaign, needed three ballots to determine the most valuable player on this year's team, but the boys finally decided that Bill "Crusher" Banghart, who played fullback for the Hawks this year was the man.

Banghart, although not flashy, was a pile driving line cracker, and a steady defensive man. He climaxed his high school career with an 80 yard run for the touchdown which proved to be the winning margin in the battle against White Hall to determine the second place winner.

There were others who figured strongly in the balloting, done by the letter men to determine which player should receive the Jacksonville Journal and Courier's gold football to be given to the most valuable player on the team.

They were Paul Carter, a tackle, and Mike Graves, end, halfback, or a player in wherever he was needed, and Melvin Prough, a guard. The four boys were big cogs in the machine which kept Carrollton near the top in the conference for the past

New York, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Minnesota's Gophers hold their place as America's No. 1 college football team by a decisive margin over Louisiana State, champion of the deep south, in the final national ranking poll conducted by the Associated Press for 1936.

Results compiled this week in the seventh country-wide consensus reveal Minnesota the choice among 25 out of 35 experts. Nine placed L. S. U. at the top of their lists. One first-place ballot was cast for Santa Clara, the nation's only major unbeaten and untied team.

The final rankings with points tallied on a basis of 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1:

First Ten	Points
1. Minnesota	332
2. Louisiana State	309
3. Pittsburgh	227
4. Alabama	218
5. Washington	216
6. Northwestern	155
7. Notre Dame	107
8. Nebraska	69
9. Pennsylvania	34
10. Penn State	34
Second Ten:	Points
11. Duke	33
12. Yale	22
13. Dartmouth	13
14. Duquesne	12
15. Fordham	11
16. Texas Christian	10
17. Tennessee	9
18. Arkansas and Navy	8
19. Marquette	4
20. Chicago	4

The chief shake-ups this week, with the regular season closed for all but two of the "top ten," find Pittsburgh displacing Alabama in third place and Washington, the far west's Bowl choice, hurdling its coast rival, Santa Clara, for fifth position.

It is interesting to note, in connection with pending post-season pairings, that Louisiana State is rated tougher opposition than Alabama, regarded to have the "inside track" for the big money Rose Bowl game on New Year's day.

The ranking list clearly points to the best intersectional matches, with Pittsburgh a heavy choice to play in the Sugar Bowl, at New Orleans, against the southern team that doesn't go to Pasadena to meet Washington. The middle west dominated the top ten, with four of its five entries in the first half of the list.

GREEN BAY PACKERS NEED ONE MORE WIN

Chicago.—(AP)—The Green Bay Packers, who dominated the National Professional Football League picture from 1929 through 1931, today needed just one more victory—in the East-West playoff—to win their fourth championship.

The powerful Packers won their ninth straight game yesterday by downing the 1935 titleholders, Detroit, 26 to 17, before 22,000 spectators. The defeat ended Detroit's last mathematical chance of getting into the East-West playoff and assured Green Bay of the eastern section title on a record of 10 victories and one defeat, with one game to play.

The Chicago Bears, who engaged the Packers in a hot stretch duel for the western crown, saw their last hopes fade when they were upset 14 to 7 by their snappy home-town rivals, the Cardinals.

Four years, although not all of them played the full allotted time.

Banghart, in addition to being a football player who has been one of the mainstays of the Carrollton team for the past two years, is also a sprinter on the track and field team. He weighs only 165 pounds, but is rangy and has a lot of power in his legs. Although he played the fullback position and held up the ball carrying end of the job in fine style, he also developed into one of the best blockers on the team.

Banghart is the son of one of the policemen on the Carrollton force. He is 18 years old. Although not a good kicker, he did some of the work when Paul Hindelang was laid up with a bad ankle.

The most valuable player also presents another paradox. Almost infallible when it came to defending against passes, he couldn't throw the ball accurately enough to be used in this capacity.

Banghart, Prough, Carter, Graves, E. Graves, Muehleback, Pettin, White-man, and Walters, all members of this year's team, are seniors.

Attending from Jacksonville were Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Meeker, Rev. Glen Schillerstrom, Rev. Harry Lohman, Clarence Massey, Dr. Arie Vanderhorst represented the Woodson and Pishag churches and Rev. W. S. Neeley the First Presbyterian church of Virginia.

City Council Moves To Ask WPA Funds For New Lake Construction Here

After submitting the estimates for the project, Mr. Schwartz was bombarded with questions from the aldermen, all of whom were present, and from other persons who attended the meeting. Mayor F. J. Blackburn presided over the meeting, and members of the Citizen's Water committee attended, along with City Attorney Edward Cleary and Special Counsel C. Ray Grunty.

Answering these questions, Schwartz stated that the sponsors get their suits if they hire a construction superintendent, whose chief duties are to co-ordinate the activities of the various agencies involved. The sponsor, in this city, can enter into contract to furnish any of the items which it is to furnish, he said, or it can hire the work to be done on the project, stating that much of the work now underway in the county would be closed in a short time, and there were no new projects. He stated that the quota for this county is 641 workers on the WPA program, and that there was an opening for about 60 men at present, if the WPA had projects on which the men could work.

He said he was interested in the project from a WPA standpoint only. He said there were about 1200 to 1500 men available for work, three-fourths of from he estimated were living in the city.

At a recent meeting, he said, he was told by the county superintendent of highways that for every dollar spent by the county in sponsoring road improvements, it had received in return about $3.

Special Counsel Grunty told the problems confronting him in securing the land on which the lake would be constructed, and said he was unable to estimate how long it would take to get either the land or the necessary approvals.

J. F. Claus complimented the council on the fine spirit of cooperation the council has shown with the special water committee, and J. W. Merriam urged the council to make application for the WPA assistance.

Debate Over Whether the contract now held by the Caldwell Engineering company for the WPA project would carry over into the WPA project resulted in the statement by several members of the council and by the WPA engineer that it was presumed that it would, but H. L. Caldwell, president of the company, who also was present, stated that the WPA contract would have no bearing on the WPA application.

Alderman George Brown led the discussion regarding the contract, and after losing by a 7-1 vote a motion to request the Caldwell Engineering company to submit an itemized statement of its surveys to date, objected to passing on the application until the city and special attorney for the project had an opportunity to pass upon its legality in view of an action taken by the council and the proposed project, that any discussion of the project, that any contracts, present and future, be submitted to them for a written opinion before the council takes any action. The opposition, however, was crushed when it was pointed out that the application was not a contract, but merely a request for financial aid.

Asked how long it would require the WPA to decide whether it would accept the project, the engineer said that it would require about four weeks to obtain approval for the ordinary project, but that a project of this magnitude probably would require from six to eight weeks.

There was more talk about the contract Caldwell holds with the city, and Mr. Caldwell was asked whether the $3,500 the city already has paid him on this project would be included in the engineering fees to be paid on the WPA project. He assured the council that this fee would be considered as part payment for his services under the WPA set-up. Asked whether his fee would be any higher in view of the increased estimated cost, the engineer said that it would not, because his contract is based on the estimated price of the PWA proposal and would not be changed.

Alderman Brown displayed a copy of the city's contract with the Caldwell company and argued that the city had paid him too much money. He pointed out that the contract called for $500 when item one of the contract was completed, which included preparing the initial estimates and drawings necessary for submission of the project to the PWA. Item two of the contract, he said, provided that three percent of the estimated cost of the improvement should be paid when the PWA accepted the plan, there were ten sets of plans and specifications presented to the council, and the contracts and bids had been let. He argued that the project had never reached this stage.

Motion Is Lost

Alderman Mathers attempted to settle the problem that has caused so many outbursts in the council over the engineer by asking Alderman Brown what he meant by an itemized account, and also whether the engineering company would supply the council with a statement of the work put in on the project. The motion to require the engineer to furnish the city with an itemized account, however, lost by a 6-2 vote, Alderman Brown and Early voting for the motion.

C. P. McClelland, chairman of the citizen's water committee, told the council of the efforts of the committee to work out some plan whereby the city's water situation could be improved. He hailed the proposal submitted by the WPA as the best he has heard yet, and pointed out that the city now could secure the improvement for which there would be the largest expenditure of money, and that the city itself would have to pay only the amount which it was contemplated would be necessary for making only the most essential repairs.

He declared that the committee had not been together on the proposals that had been submitted until the WPA proposition was submitted at a meeting Monday afternoon. The committee was studying plans whereby it could cut the cost of the necessary improvements to a point where the city could afford to make the changes. He declared the WPA project had everything in it that could be hoped for, including rehabilitation of the present plant, a supply of water which would tide the city over during periods of drought, and extend the water mains.

The committee, he said, was under the impression that the WPA application would absorb the contract the city had with the Caldwell Engineering company to draw plans, specifications and to supervise the work. He pointed out that even if the WPA was discontinued after June 30, the city would by that time have the work far enough along that it would require only a small amount of money to finish the work.

Project Need

O. P. Wiltz, county supervisor of the WPA projects, told of the need of the project, stating that much of the work now underway in the county would be closed in a short time, and there were no new projects. He stated that the quota for this county is 641 workers on the WPA program, and that there was an opening for about 60 men at present, if the WPA had projects on which the men could work.

He said he was interested in the project from a WPA standpoint only. He said there were about 1200 to 1500 men available for work, three-fourths of from he estimated were living in the city.

Former Local Woman Will Be Here in Interest of Organization

Among the Girl Scout officials who will come to Jacksonville today to discuss the organization of a local council will be Mrs. Sybil Gordon-Newell of New York City, executive secretary of the Girl Scout national field division. Mrs. Newell once lived in Jacksonville and is a daughter of the late Dr. J. C. Gordon, formerly managing officer of the Illinois School for the Deaf.

She directs the activities of a score of national Girl Scout field workers whose duties include promotion, organization and training of Girl Scout leaders and council members throughout the United States. Her first experience in girls' work was as a director of clubs. Later she became an organizer for the American Red Cross and served three years in the field for this organization. She has been associated with the Girl Scout Movement for several years.

Accompanying Mrs. Newell will be Mrs. Louis H. Burlingame of St. Louis, national chairman of the physically handicapped and second vice president of the national executive committee for Girl Scouts; Mrs. Katie Lee Johnson of the Grand Lakes Region; and Mrs. M. Giving the number she wanted, her face took on a hard little smile—and she didn't know the pity of it. For a while, looking about the rooms she had created, she had been proud, pleased, and a bit softened. Her expression had been a reflection of this uplift. But it was gone now; she wore again the defiant look of a hypersensitive person who is bitterly conscious of having less money than the neighbors.

Marcia Canfield was the unknown author of the latter expression. Marcia, who had everything! Well, fate and other people's intentions notwithstanding, here was something which Marcia or any one else would not appropriate without a battle!

A voice on the wire said "Hello." Dorothy leaned toward the phone.

BRUCE McDUGALL likewise surveyed his new home with a sense of satisfaction. Except for his books, a few pictures and his drawing board, he had done nothing toward creating the rooms, but, since they fell within the broad category of what he wanted, he was as pleased with them as Dorothy Osborn was pleased with the fruits of her own labors.

The Sellers women, last of their line, lived comfortably in the old house, attended by a Negro couple.

By arrangement with his landladies, McDougall received breakfast and lunch in his rooms. Dinner would be each day a separate adventure.

The artist had just returned from an afternoon walk, wandering aimlessly to get acquainted with the village in which he was to live.

Now a bath and shave and glad raiment, and a dinner by invitation. He put a new blade in his razor.

Since some of man's truest thoughts occur while shaving, McDougall was impressed when, suddenly, it came to him out of the mirror that he was by way of being a bit lonely.

It was the purely temporary feeling of being alone in a strange community that had struck him, of course. Living alone was what finally drove a lot of people to get married, he supposed. They wanted someone around to talk to.

On the subject of getting married, what a site for a home he had run across on his walk this afternoon. A piece of land at the crest of a hill; the real estate agent's sign said half an acre.

Half an acre, half an acre. What was the name of that show—"Half-Acre in Eden?"

He thought, too, of another sign he had seen, in a furniture store window: "You furnish the girl, we furnish the home."

All right. Make out a contract, mister. I've picked out a lot; I have my eye on the girl. Miss Canfield, will you? Marcia, Marcia—ah, Marcia!

Well, the beauty of living alone was that you could think what you pleased and there was no one else around to guess it from your expression. No sneering, prying roommate to say, "Nuts over the gal, eh? McDougall has fallen at last, has he? McDougall's love-sick! McDougall gets to thinking about her until he can't get to sleep! Old sap McDougall!"

He could not forget the whispered conversation in the village auditorium. "How silly of Marcia to fly after him!" "Well, it's her engagement. If she was determined—"

What was the matter with the guy, that Marcia had flown after him? What was the reason for her low spirits which he had observed in the Chicago coffee shop, before he had known who she was or whence she came—before he'd known that fate would tantalize him?

Well, whatever it was, what difference did it make? Marcia was engaged to the unknown; Marcia was, the evidence said, hopelessly in love.

So, McDougall, wash it all away and forget it! Or pretend to. And now what? Ah, yes—his dinner engagement.

The artist dressed. He was about to turn out the lights and depart when the telephone rang. There was an extension of the downstairs instrument in his rooms, and he heard the Negro maid call up the stairs: "It's for you, Mr. McDougall."

"HELLO," said Dorothy Osborn. "Are you all settled in your new home, and have you remembered you're coming over for dinner tonight?"

"Of course I've remembered. I was just leaving. Or will that make me too early?"

"Not at all. But you mustn't walk in this weather. I called to say that I'm taking Mother down to the village on an errand, and we'll stop by for you."

BATH! BUNNY! BOOM!

Just Another Day in The Life of a Policeman

Bath or no bath, when Patrolman Albert Spreen sees a rabbit, the old hunting instinct gets the best of him. Saturday afternoon Patrolman Spreen was in the act of hopping into a tub of nice warm water. The soap, towels and a change of clothing had been laid out, and the officer was in proper attire had the door bell rang, with his gaze wandered out of the bath room window.

A rabbit! Right there in plain sight, cutting across the Spreen lawn on Richards street.

The patrolman forgot about his bath. He shouted to Mrs. Spreen to bring his shotgun and a shell.

Mrs. Spreen, not having sighted the rabbit, hesitated a moment until she was certain her husband had not suddenly contracted bathroom fever, or some other ailment to make him act strangely. Then she got the gun.

Patrolman Spreen threw up the bath room window, shoved the gun barrel out into the chilly air, and "bang" Bunny was no more.

Mrs. Spreen went out and got the rabbit. Mr. Spreen went ahead with his bath.

Fried rabbit was the menu Sunday at the Spreen residence.

City Council Moves To Ask WPA Funds For New Lake Construction Here

A proposal to construct a new lake, rehabilitate the present water pumping station and extend the water system along the lines of the proposal sent to the Public Works administration, according to sweeping unanimous votes given the proposal yesterday and last night by the citizen's water committee and the city council, both of which met in special sessions.

Increased in the amount of money to be expended on the entire project from $366,000 proposed in the application to the PWA, to $494,256, in the proposal to be submitted to the WPA, but carrying an application for the government to furnish funds up to $326,261 and the city to furnish $173,995, the proposal which was prepared by the Caldwell Engineering company, the citizen's water committee and a representative of the Works Progress Administration will be submitted to the WPA for its consideration after being signed by the mayor and city engineer.

Because the project presents many features desired by the WPA, the council was assured that if the city would provide its share of the cost, the project stood an excellent chance of passing both the state and Washington offices of the organization. That the city would need to raise a bond issue of at least $175,000, the council has no doubt. There was no discussion of the means of financing the city's end of the program, other than that the citizen's committee and the council agreed that the bonds, if issued, should be offered to the "bond buying public for bids."

Neither was there any discussion of the steps to be taken if the project is approved. No referendum on the issue would be necessary, however, unless approximately 2,000 voters signed a petition asking for the vote. The council has the authority to issue bonds for a WPA improvement of this type, previous discussions of the methods of financing have revealed.

H. C. Schwartz, of the Peoria office of the WPA, presented the proposal to the city council assembled in special session last night after the council heard a report, signed by C. P. McCall, chairman, and Harlan Williams, secretary of the citizen's water committee, stating "that we recommend to the city council of Jacksonville that they make application to the WPA for financial aid in carrying out the project proposed for improvement to the existing municipal water works, involving construction of a new impounding reservoir, remodeling and enlarging the existing filtration plant into a softening plant, installation of additional water mains and all work incident thereto as prepared by the representative of the Works Progress Administration and the Caldwell Engineering company under date of Nov. 23, 1936 and that the sale of bonds for the payment of the city's share of the cost of the project proposed be thrown open to the bond buying public for bids."

To Seek Work
Stating the cost briefly, Mr. Schwartz told the council that the WPA is interested now in finding work for men during the winter months. He revealed that the first steps toward taking the water works improvement out of the Public Works Administration hands were made about two weeks ago when Mayor E. J. Blackburn and City Engineer Kenneth Stapleton attended a conference in Peoria at which projects were discussed.

At this time, he said, the WPA expressed an interest in the Jacksonville water situation because it offered a large amount of hand labor, which the WPA is seeking to provide employment for the men now on its rolls.

The project, as set up in the WPA application filed by the city, was examined, and then re-prepared by the Works Progress administration project. A large amount of the increased cost of the project is the result of doing away with labor saving machinery which would have been used had the project been carried through under the PWA, he said, and then pointed out all of the unskilled labor to be employed by the WPA.

The district WPA engineer presented a breakdown of the cost of the project. The estimate he submitted called for a total of $222,552, or 45 per cent of the project, to be spent for unskilled labor. One per cent of $2,225 would be paid out for intermediate labor, which the WPA also would supply. Skilled labor, estimated at costing about $7,029, would be borne jointly by the WPA and the city, with the city paying for approximately $4,005 and the WPA for $3,024. The WPA would bear the cost of the professional and technical services in this connection, estimated at $1,656, bringing the total labor cost for the project to $236,437, for which the city would be required to pay approximately $4,005.

The federal government, it was proposed, would pay for superintendent on the project, estimated to cost about $7,158.

Taking up the materials that will be needed for the project, Mr. Schwartz said the estimate on the application called for one item of material and supplies, amounting to $126,831, of which the city would provide $46,160 and the WPA $80,671. The city would be required to bear all of the cost of equipment rentals, amounting to an estimated cost of $29,280, and also other direct costs, estimated to amount to $45,550.

Funds For Project
Figured out on a percentage basis, he said, the WPA would provide funds for 64.8 per cent of the project and the city would pay for 35.2 per cent of the project.

Before the application received the vote of the council, it was pointed out that by adopting the motion to submit the application to the WPA the city was in no way obligating itself to go ahead with the project. The city used plans and specifications which the Caldwell Engineering company prepared in order to submit an application for a WPA grant and loan for the purpose of doing the same work, and therefore did not incur and expense in this regard.

Labor Estimates
Breaking down the labor estimates further, the district WPA engineer said that unskilled laborers on the project would receive about $221,760, all of which is to be paid by WPA, and watchmen $792, another WPA expense item. The WPA also would pay all cement mixer operators and their clerk, craft helpers and their typist, but that the city would be required to pay the skilled laborers such as carpenters, steel workers, who would assist in raising and securing steel, concrete finishers, electricians, plumbers, and masons, but that the WPA would provide a timekeeper for these men. The WPA also would maintain the chief clerk, the superintendent for skilled laborers, labor foremen, unskilled labor foremen, and the project technician.

The city's cost for equipment, he estimated, would be $12,600 for tractors, $3,300 for a carry-all, the same for teams of horses, $699 each for two concrete mixers, $3,300 for large trucks, $315 for a small tractor, and $45 for a grader.

The city's largest item of expense would arise in purchasing the land where the lake and dam site are to be constructed. No definite place for the location of these items is required by the WPA and it was pointed out that the report submitted by Mr. Hatchler, of the Burns and McDermott Engineering firm of Kansas City mentioned three possible sites.

The estimate, however, takes into consideration the largest of these sites, on the Big Sandy watercourse south of the city, and estimates that land amounting to $56,550 will have to be purchased by the city. The estimate also allows $10,776 for engineer's designs, and $9,326 for supervision and inspection, $13,898 for sponsor's maintenance costs, $2,000 for tool service and $2,000 for the transportation of men to the work site and back to the city again.

There are 13 items of work outlined in the estimate, covering the proposed development. They are a new dam and reservoir site, costing an estimated $297,367, repairs to the spillway at the present pumping station, estimated to cost $37,180; remodeling the filter plant, estimated at $59,013; mixing basin improvement, estimated at $760; new concrete flume, estimated at $2,883; coagulation basin extension, $8,883; office laboratory and storage additions, $2,716; loading track and enclosure, $2,116; machine shop and toilet, $1,538; heating system complete, $4,850; new roof, $5,170; reinforcing main extensions $69,776; and a new sludge pit, $2,000.

In view of the large number of man hours to be used in the improvement, he pointed out, the government would be in a position to pay for almost twice as much material to be used as the city would be called upon to purchase. The estimate sets out the various items the government will buy for the work, amounting to $80,671, and sets up the cost to the city for materials at $46,160. The total to be spent for materials amounts to $126,831.
